Intergenerational Arts & Crafts

WoW Mums have extended our WoW intergenerational lunches to monthly arts and crafts classes with students from Thames Christian School, who regularly visit local lodges to create art with the elderly residents. This month they visited Haven Lodge and made an arrangement of their paper hands, which they all traced and decorated together.

Thames Christian School is using WoW intergenerational project as a way to help build better relationships between young and old people and create learning opportunities in the process. Students would have had their arts and crafts club at school, but this way they are doing it with elderly and breaking the barriers between generations and alleviating loneliness of elderly. This project helps build respect and positive engagement between neighbors and three generations.

WoW at Roehampton Festival

WoW Mums have been asked by the Roehampton Festival organisers to provide face painting for children and adults. Two of our Mums face-painted and had fun the whole day on Bull Green in Danebury Avenue.

Zumba

Excellent new Zumba class has been going on for a while in Pennethorne House, organised by Chelsea Andrews. Join these classes on every Tuesday from 9.30am and on every Wednesday from 6pm for an hour. Special classes can be booked on Wednesday at 7.30pm. Pop in to find out more. ## WoW Karate

WoW Karate started this month with karate master Andrew Beech, Black Belt, 2nd Dan, teaching all children from all local schools. This self-defense class has been requested by parents to protect their children in transition from primary to secondary school and raise their vigilance. WoW Karate Championship is on 1st

December in Caius House big hall. Please register on 07703723236 if you wish to join this heavily subsidised afterschool activity. Thank you to Thomas's Schools Foundation for their funding and their partnership in delivering this project for all local children.

WoW Enterprise Club in Chelsea

WoW Enterprise Club had a stall at the Edge of the Box networking event organised by Chelsea Foundation to support new start-ups and small enterprises. Apart from meeting new business partners and clients we also had workshops on finance, marketing and media with Microsoft spokesman. Next event is on 31st October.
