WoW Mums in Waitrose

WoW Mums have been chosen by Waitrose, as part of their Community Matters cause, to receive a donation through the green buttons in Clapham Junction branch. Other chosen charitable organisations this month are British Heart Foundation and Children's Charity. In addition to the donation, we have also been fortunate enough to receive Waitrose Partners help through their donated partner time to strengthen our community. They liked our WoW Inter-generational project and will donate and cook BBQ with us for all elderly from Battersea. It will be on Saturday, 21st September in Haven Lodge, sheltered housing accommodation, from 12.

WoW at Key Festival

WoW Mums Sandra, Gema and Clara went to La Clave Festival this month with WoW Kids. This is the largest free Latin music and dance festival in London, which showcases UK's best Latin artists, bands, dancers and musicians to represent unique UK-Latino culture and identity. Lovely fusion of genres.

WoW Enterprise Club

Senia Dedic at Stamford Bridge VIP Lounge

WoW Enterprise Club continues with business networking at Stamford Bridge, organised by Chelsea Foundation for small businesses and aspiring entrepreneurs. We had very good speakers who coached us on importance of branding and having a good business USP (unique selling point). A variety of useful advice and market tools are given at these workshops, which are very valuable to a new small business CEO to grow their enterprise, such as market strategy, product or service pricing, unit of value and market value. Ixion organisation offers help with conducting efficient market research, targeting customers effectively and learning about your macro environment. Next event is on 14th September.

WoW Enterprise Club has been nominated and short-listed for the Wandsworth Chamber of Commerce Business Award for our contribution in helping single mothers solve their employability problem and find a way out of a catch 22 situation, where they had to choose between getting a full time job or taking care of their young family.

WoW Karate

WoW Mums are continuing with our karate classes as requested by parents at our Parent Forum, to teach children in transition from primary to secondary school basic self defense and vigilance, when they are alone on the road. WoW Karate starts on Saturday, 21st September at 10am. Please call 07703723236 to register.
