Marsha de Cordova MP for Battersea, Balhama and Wandsworth has given awards to the local Community Champions at the Jubilee Room at the Houses of Parliament this month.

One of the chosen Community Champions is WoW Mum Senia Dedic BEM for the Community Engagement Initiative.

This award has been given to 11 organisations in Battersea to show the recognition by our MP of the close network between the citizens and of the achievements made to make our community a better place to live in.

NHS Thinking Partners

WoW Mums have been invited to the Thinking Partners Forum meeting, organised by SW London NHS, to receive the grant reports from local community organisations who delivered projects funded by NHS.

We heard from Vanessa Bobb from A2nd Voice, Liz Sayce from The Furzedown Project and from Miranda Taggart on behalf of MindWorks UK and others. Photo: Senia and Su Elliot from Older People's Forum

WoW Tea Party

WoW Mums have organised a lunch with physical activity before eating for the residents of Holmleigh Court in Bassetsea. We have played sitting down volley ball game with a balloon, which has been very enjoyable and fun for all. Thank you to our funders A&P Foundation and the Brighter Living in Wandsworth and especially our volunteer driver Jow Wiczorek.

Next hot lunch event is on 1st December at 1pm, followed by Christmas Party on 14th December at 3pm.

London Borough of Culture

WoW Mums are very happy to have been invited by Wandsworth Council to the launch our London Borough of Culture bid for 2025. Wandsworth has a lot to offer and our local community, businesses and Council's Art department will work hard to achieve the coveted title Borough of Culture 2025. Photo: Sara O'Donnell with Senia Dedic

Black Heroines

As a part of Black History Month, Wandsworth Council has organised an exhibition of vibrant portraits acknowledging some of the remarkable African-Caribbean women in the borough, who are making a difference in business, community and sports, Celebrating Wandsworth black heroines recognises 16 of these inspiring women, who shared nuggets of their lives, heritage, inspiration and joy, together with their photographs.

It is an ongoing exhibition in Wandsworth Town Hall's Marble Hall.
